Unique to Intesource are the customer-driven concepts backing all enhancements and the expediency in delivery. "Our goal was to provide a new platform with enhanced tools that maintained the same look and feel our customers love," said Intesource Vice President and Chief Technology Officer Gabriel Gabaldon. "Undoubtedly, this will help our customers manage vendors around the world with supporting analytics to help assess risk - imperative in today's world."

In addition to supplier and risk information, Intesource clients now have visibility to current and historical commodity pricing. This data, when used in planning and trending activities, supports sourcing activities and aids in monitoring and validating existing contracts.

Intesource President & Chief Executive Officer Tom Webster stated, "What sets Intesource apart is the 'community' attitude of our customers. Client requests are incorporated and developed in a short time frame which, as history shows, is nearly impossible when looking at other large companies in this space."

In this new world of increased volatility and risk and doing more with less, the enhancements and new offerings of the Intesource eSuite assist users to not only endure the current economy but succeed in it.
